If you want a perfect contrast to the big, cosmopolitan, business and history-packed city of Warsaw, then visit the pristine areas of the Białowieża National Park. This is the last and only place in Europe where forests are preserved in their primeval states. These are not just your usual woods; it is a magical reserve of enormous trees, extreme verdure, rich wildlife and formerly a place for occult pagan rituals. They are forests like no other.

The symbol of the park is the “żubr”, the European bison (buffalo), the biggest mammal of the old continent. The last lowland bison died in Białowieża in 1919, and a few years later Polish scientists started a successful project to restore the bison population. Today more than 200 European bison can be found there.

During this tour, you will visit the Orthodox holy mountain in Grabarka, the bison reserve and, accompanied by a qualified guide, the strictly limited-access reserve in the Białowieża forest.

The Bialowieza Forest is on the Byelorussian border, 230 km from Warsaw – it is possible to make the trip in one day, but we recommend spending 1 night in Bialowieza. This tour is recommended if you have children.

Suggested programme:

Day 1

09:00 – Departure from Warsaw.

12:30 – Arrival in Hajnowka – visiting the orthodox church in Hajnowka, lunch break.
